We met this morning and the wheels are in motion. Steve Goulding is preparing meeting notes. We should have cost estimates from the consultants to perform the work in a day or two; what is the source of funds ?

Tried to phone you...no answer.

The original stated task for the PE&TS team + me for Tues/Wed/Thur of this week was to perform a cold eyes review of the isolated scenario projects. Given how this has been unfolding and the fact that Nelson Seymour, Gerard Piercy and I were each project managers for some of the studies, I suggest the following:

- The PE&TS team and I meet tomorrow as scheduled to discuss the refresh of the studies (cost, schedule, etc as we discussed), divide the projects among ourselves and engage the appropriate consultants.
- When the consultants submit their letter reports (May 11 latest) we would again convene to review the results. Assuming we are in agreement, the material would be released for use.

What do you think ?
