Hi Paul:

Would it be possible for Bob Dandenault and Paul Durkin to give a professional opinion based on their review of the Amec Assessment Report, interviews with Nalcor staff and the site visit as to whether or not the Holyrood Thermal Generating Station could be used , with sufficient maintenance and life extension program, to 2041? This would appear in their part of the final report.

Also, would it be appropriate to comment in the next bi-weekly report on the expected level of engineering that existed at the time of DG2 against what has been experienced with Nalcor to date.

I am thinking in terms of items like the system integration studies that are only now being done by the EPCM contractor with an expected completion date of November 2011 . Wouldn't these normally be done prior to moving thru Gate 2 , similar to the reliability study?

Thanks

Fred
