Thanks, Robert. I'll send a note on to Elizabeth to get her thoughts. I'll keep you posted.

The summary is ready- Ed and Gilbert are currently reviewing it.

I understand your points, but clearly an 8th floor decision. Do you want me to forward this to BC and EM, or were you planning to do it directly.

Is pro cis ready?

The highlevel messaging would remain the same -but I'm wondering if there would be value in walking through the details of the complaints and more specifically the ruling document itself with the Opposition Leaders directly. I'm not so concerned about the media.

As we know the fundamentals are rather complex if you haven't had much exposure to the process-offering up Ed and Gilbert to walk through the ruling document and technicalities with the Opposition Leaders before debating the issues in the House may reduce circulation of misinformation.

Do we have extra salient points or different messages to add?

Do you think there is value in another technical briefing for press and opposition on the ruling upon release of translation?
