Hi Ron

Thanks for the update - I will support getting more people to site when you need them and improving the CM team is a good move.

Dr Ibbs is transparent - he sees a lot of billable hours but we do not need much more than he has provided so far. It sounds to me he is repeating observations/ideas that we have made to him and his team , nothing very new however he does serve a purpose to help Giacomo to get the Astaldi CM/PM changes through.

Lets keep an eye on him- I will express my reservations about Ibbs and future work to Lance, so we are all on the same page.

I am planning my week and it looks like I will be on site Friday instead of my usual day which is thursday

Anyway .. I hope you are getting some walking in the new recreation centre and that you are not overdoing things because we care about your health. Vicky Stanford went to see Fleetwood Mac and told me they were top drawer so you are in for a treat

Best Regards

Paul

Paul - thanks for that. In reality my contribution is only one small piece of the pie. You are correct that we are indeed a close knit band of brothers, and it is only our combined passion that has gotten us through numerous hurdles to date and that will get us through future challenges.

I will be looking to bolster our CM team with a few junior/intermediate engineers - we have inspector type positions unfilled on our org chart, but young engineers will provide much better value. The market is very favourable at this time, and there are several strong candidates that I have been made aware of. Also, we need some survey capability - I am working that. The CM team need a lot of guidance and they really appreciate the practical focus on CM that Ed and I are bringing. We will also need more of our technical folks here more often come March / April and I may be looking for your help to make that happen.

Regarding Dr. Ibbs, he and his team are indeed bringing value. I do caution, however, that the good Dr. is drumming up business at the same time.

By the way, the recreation center opened today - there seems to be considerable interest already - I will use the facility for walking for when it is too cold outside.

Best regards,
Ron

Jason, Scott, Brian, Pat, Darren, Greg and the team, we will beat down all obstacles.
